THE THRIVING TOWN OF CARBONDALE

Another thriving community in southern Alberta will be added to the list when the town of Carbondale is put on the market by the McGillivray Creek Coal & Coke Co., Ltd. Rapid development of the company's property makes it a necessity to provide homes for the miners and other employees, and for that purpose the company has platted the town and will place these lots on the market for sale on Saturday next. At the present time approximately one hundred and twenty-five men are at work opening up the huge seams of coal which are found on the 3,000 acres of crown granted coal land owned by the McGillivray Creek Coal & Coke Co., Ltd. When the steel tipples and other necessary buildings are finished which are now in the course of construction the company will be able to mine several thousand tons of coal daily. This will increase the number of men working at the mine substantially, and will make of Carbondale a good sized town. The company has sold three lots in the center of Carbondale to a number of prominent business men of Nelson, B. C., who are now organizing an hotel company and have announced that they will build a three-story modern hotel at Carbondale. P. Burns & Co. have secured a site for the location of a branch market, and several business men in neighboring towns have looked over the field with a view of opening stores. A free return fare offer has been announced by the company which will enable buyers of lots to view any property which they may purchase. This offer simply requires that the buyer procure a receipt from the ticket agent showing that he has bought his return trip ticket to Coleman and such receipt will then be accepted by the company as part of first payment on any lot desired.

MORAL REFORM MEETING.

Last Sunday evening the Rev. W. G. Fortune gave a very interesting address on the purposes and objects of the Temperance and Moral Reform League. After the address the meeting of officers for the coming year took place. Those elected were President, J. H. Morrison; Sec. Treas., Alex. McLean; Committee: J. O. C. McDonald, W. L. Culmette, D. J. Hill, J. D. S. Barrett, Rev. T. W. Murray, Mayor Cameron, Wm. Shaw, J. H. Ross.

A business meeting was held afterwards and among the subjects discussed was licenses in Coleman. The Rev. Mr. Fortune remained in Coleman until Tuesday looking after the interests of the league.

PEARY REACHED NORTH POLE ON APRIL 6, 1909.

New York, Sept. 8th.—Peary has succeeded. "Stars and Stripes" nailed to North Pole." From out the Arctic darkness there was flashed this message which stunned the scientific world and thrilled the heart of every layman. From the bleak coast of Labrador Peary gave to the world the news that he had attained his goal in the far North, while at the same moment in far off Denmark Dr. Froedrick A. Cook, of Brooklyn, was being dined and lionized by Royalty for the same achievement.

The first word of Peary's success reached New York at 12 o'clock this p.m. in a despatch to the Associated Press. It contained the bare announcement of his finding the Pole. Almost simultaneously he had transmitted the news to London, repeating dramatically and simply "Stars and Stripes nailed to the North Pole."

At the same time he similarly advised the Governor of Newfoundland. Both the old and the new world were thus apprised of his achievement practically at the same moment and the excitement which followed attests to the high pitch of interest aroused over the climax of man's perseverance. Newspaper extras were rushed from the press and those who read marvelled at the twist of the universe which had matched the ice masquerade from the North in so strange a manner. Like Dr. Cook's first message Peary's was tantalizing in its brevity and the waiting public, stimulated by Cook's success was left unsated. Peary resumed his homeward journey after filing the news.

A very happy event occurred at the home of J. Boyd, Blairmore, when his daughter Annie was married to Mr. O'Hara, the popular proprietor of the Miner's hotel. The happy couple went to Seattle for the honeymoon. Our heartfelt congratulations.

ROD AND GUN FOR SEPTEMBER

September is noted for duck hunting and the numerous sportsmen who pursue this form of sport with ardour will find their favorite recreation dealt with in ample fashion in the September issue of Rod and Gun in Canada, published by W. J. Taylor, at Woodstock, Ont. This healthy and invigorating sport receives fine treatment in stories of duck hunting in Ontario, Manitoba and Saskatchewan, game shooting in the West and papers on the ruffed grouse as found in British Columbia and Ontario. Light travel and holiday sketches, with fishing papers give variety and interest to the issue.

Dog lovers will welcome a further paper by Mr. Chapman dealing with the Alrodale terrier. Altogether no better companion for the sportsman either at home, in camp, or on his travels, can be secured than a copy of this fine issue.

Lille Jottings

The new school master, G. R. Keith, has made a very good impression as a very genial man and efficient teacher. The children all like him, but say that he is very strict.

Arthur Morris, who for the past few months has been timekeeper at No. 1 mine left here a few days ago to take up a position at the Royal Collieries. We are sorry to lose him, but he is a nice young fellow and a regular attendant at church services. We wish him every success in the future.

A special train was run to Frank on Monday and many of the Lille people availed themselves of the opportunity to take in the Blairmore races.

Things were very quiet in the village on Labor Day until the evening when it appears that some of the men who had been drinking heavily during the day commenced fighting and the police had their hands full in maintaining order. As a result of this several fellows were brought before Insp. Belcher on Tuesday, charged with being drunk and disorderly and were fined from $5 to $15 with costs each.

On Wednesday at the police court, before Justices Belcher and Pinkney, B. Bertole was charged with assaulting Const. Martin when in discharge of his duty. He was found guilty and fined $30 and costs, or in default three months. He paid the fine.

Chicken thieves are again active in Blairmore.

The police are active these days regarding the removal of the re-stricted district.

Some of our "Moral Reform" citizens "knew nothing" when interviewed by the police regarding the Red Light district. It is up to the people to assist the police if a clean town is desired instead of trying to shift the responsibility to "the other fellow."

O. L. Boussea, late manager of the West Canadian Collieries, Limited, who is now in France will not return.

W. Coulthard, late of Fernie, B. C., has been engaged as manager of the Collieries and assumed charge Monday. Mr. Coulthard comes highly recommended.

Blairmore post office is now a money office.

Capt. Beebe visited Macleod this week.

BLAIRMORE RACES.

One of the largest crowds ever assembled in the Pass for many years gathered at Blairmore, Monday last, to witness the Labor Day sports consisting principally of horse racing and the big marathon, all of which came off in the very best of style and many were the expressions of satisfaction from the thousands who passed through the gates at the promptness with which the events were called.

In the forenoon a baseball game was played on the recreation grounds between a team made up of McLeod boys who happened to be here, and the home team. The home team, after a well contested game, won out by a score of 4 to 3. Great disappointment was expressed at the failure of Coleman to send their team to compete for the "sick" cup, which was put up for competition.

There was a little dissatisfaction over the qualification of some of the entries in the saddle horse race, but as no written protests were made to the judges the matter was let drop.

Taking it as a whole, no better day's horse racing has ever been held in the West, and the expression of satisfaction from all corners gives the management much to be proud of.

FIREMEN'S MEETING

The adjourned meeting in the fire hall was well attended. Chief Graham was voted to the chair and much business was transacted. It was moved by H. A. De La Matry and seconded by C. Higgins that a ball be given on Sept. 24th. Carried. The following committees were appointed, arrangement H. De La Matry, W. Owen, H. Gate and Mr. Hodgson, Refreshment H. Gate, F. Graham and H. De La Matry. A large number of the ladies of Coleman are assisting to make the ball a grand success.

WE ARE A TOWNOn all sides can be heard the question, why not be incorporated into a town at once? The question is as natural as it is logical. Work of annexing Slay town is now being completed and brought about.
This, of course, is costly and in addition a great deal of red tape
has to be undergone in order to bring it about. Is it worth while to expend all this money and time to bring Slay town into a village? The only further expenditure of making the united towns into an incorporation is the expense of a public meeting and a taking of the necessary census and the obtaining of the charter.Precedents may be asked.
Okotoks with a population of 950 has a Mayor and six aldermen and the town is better off for it. Pincher Creek with a population of 1400 is incorporated.
Does she want to go back to the old order of things?
These towns can go ahead and build their own sidewalks, they can build much needed sewage systems, they can pass by-laws
for the betterment of the town and its property, they can gather money on thirty year
debentures and construct streets, public buildings and public owned utilities which will be paid not only out of the present day taxes but out of the taxes of ratepayers for thirty years to come.We are big enough for incorporation and we have a council
big enough for incorporation
and by all means let us work
for it.EDITORIAL NOTESAfter Fitzgerald eats up

Meadows in Blairmore, why didhe leave the golden meadows of Ontario? Down there they cut them both with a knife.At the present time the two discoverers of the North Pole
are engaged in a heated telegraphic discussion over their achievements. The world awaits with no little interest the publishing of their astronomical observations, which will be of great assistance to northern navigators and explorers.Peary's homeward journey in 1906 was marked with many mishaps. The three engines of his "Roosevelt" were disabled and it had to crawl along the shores of Greenland. Meeting with a sailing vessel he was enabled to forward news of his explorations. The first place
the captain of the sailing vessel called was Twillingate, Newfoundland. The first newspaper man to get the news of Peary's great dash was J. D. S.
Barrett, the present manager of the Coleman Miner. The Twillingate Sun published the interview, which was widely copied.BASEBALL AND TUG OF WAR AT HOSMERThe Coleman baseball team was defeated by 14-7 at Hosmer on Labor day. The work of the players was good and a fine exhibition was put up.

McGinnis, Hosmer—Hogan and Hamilton. Five teams competed in the tug of war tournament, representing Coleman, Hosmer and three hos-mer camps. The Coleman team, captained by J. McSwain, won easily.
The contest of walking the greasy pole was won by Wm. Ryan of Coleman.PICNIC AT THE LAKEA number of Coleman's visitors and residents took advantage of the ideal weather on Sunday to have an outing at the lake. Mr. and Mrs. J. Sadler, who were the host and hostess, were much complimented on the splendid arrangements and successful time enjoyed by all. Among those present were, Mr. and Mrs. J. Sadler, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Ward, Mr. and Mrs. T. B.
Brandon, the Misses Jones, Boisjoly,
Anthony and Mrs. McNeil, Messrs.
Brown, Pearson, Selters and Finn.

HER TRUE MUSIC

the Lovers Were Engaged.

(Copyright, 1900, by Associated Literary Press.)

"The graystone, first turn to the left," he said, looking at the wide hat drooping so that the mere outlines of chin and neck peeped from below the brim of the hat.

"A pretty hat," he said, "but the Rev. Paul Freyer reminded, 'and a picture worth remembering.'"

Two hours later from the landing of the stairs his eyes fell upon the same hat, entirely at home on the rack in the hall. He knew it instantly. By no chance could there be two such hats. It was broad and low crowned, a mass of white poppies with dark bands one of those articles, in fact, which in the hands of a woman, the possibility of the wear.

Perhaps the graystone, with its web of dull green and gray creeps and its more than rare spots of nooks, sunny and conspicuous or unexpected and shadowy, had something to do with the Rev. Paul's mood. At any rate, before he stirred from the rack, the pretty girl in white, with the glowing black eyes, had responded to his imagination by assuming the proportions of his ideal—a Virginia, a veritable Poetess.

Who she? The Rev. Paul had a measureable shock from an inspired guess. Who else, indeed, but Ada, stepdaughter to his sister, Mrs. Woodson? He had distinctly recalled a forgotten fact. There had been at the time of the marriage mentioned a child. That, of course, was years ago. She was now probably well grown.

He had been in college then, afterward traveling abroad. Returning, he had immediately settled into a pastorate and had fixed his powers to the afternoon and tired his head.

He had come protesting, regretting, and now—what if? He laughed softly and sought his sister.

"The thing is, Paul, that I have not thought, sooner than he had thought, about her with her hand on the back of a chair at the foot of the table."

"My stepdaughters," Mrs. Woodson's voice came from the doorway. "The Rev. Paul Freyer, and the Rev. Mr. Condon. Just think, Ada," she laughed gayly, "for the whole of the summer they have nothing to do but think of you."

"Oh, Sara," he said, "that had been prepared for me. I had been told that story of 'Sindbad the Sailor.' It is Maupassant's 'The Fisherman'."

"Perhaps, now, it's Poe, or maybe, as the children say, 'The Tale of the White Cat.' But I don't know, Sara, do not set me straight."

Mrs. Woodson's hands dropped heavy on her forehead, and the children eyes, Paul's heart, were to him. He had been told that story of 'Sindbad the Sailor.' It is Maupassant's 'The Fisherman'."

"Perhaps, now, it's Poe, or maybe, as the children say, 'The Tale of the White Cat.' But I don't know, Sara, do not set me straight."

Mrs. Woodson's hands dropped heavy on her forehead, and the children eyes, Paul's heart, were to him. He had been told that story of 'Sindbad the Sailor.' It is Maupassant's 'The Fisherman'."

And Ada babbled joyously on, her clear voice and full, high dominant notes of the golden years. "The chatter of a child," the Rev. Paul decided, unconsciously talking down to her. Afterward she slipped about the rooms, never still, the quick tattoo of her high heeled slippers quite as musical as her rendition of a famous concerto and disappearing only with a pleasant good night.

"A charming young girl," ventured, Mrs. Woodson, and the Rev. Paul bowed in the remembrance, with a smile. "The temptress was too great. You did never go to school, Sara?"

But if Ada had not (womanly) graces and scholarship she possessed an accomplished set of the children eyes. "The temptress was too great. You did never go to school, Sara?"

"Thinking, cynicism," the Rev. Paul remarked one day, watching the girl, "whispering, white figure in pursuit of batteries in the occasional presence of music, and the great trees. 'It's a pity to exultate a creature should be so—so—' You ought to send her to school, Sara."

Mrs. Woodson, frothed to the little sea on her forehead. "Paul," she said, "you do Ada injustice. She's stopped, laughing lightly, as Ada entered the room."

"Ada," she called, "she's both the youth by translating some of the Rev. Mr. Woodson. He's found his own wall. Perhaps you can help him over."

Obstinately Ada bent over the stall
